Study Questions

1. Compare and contrast the use of funding from the United States and China.

2. What are the limitations of Shah’s position that act as barriers to moving the project forward?

3. How should interested investors consider, measure, and allocate project risks to involved stakeholders? Are there any risks that investors can get rid of?

4. How should human rights (and access to electricity) be considered in the development of the project? Should these concerns impact Shah's decision?

5. What steps can the DRC (or other African stakeholders) take to move this project forward without US involvement?